WHY BANGLADESH? WHY NOW?

The export-oriented RMG sector in Bangladesh started as a small non-traditional export sector in the late 1970s. Within three decades, RMG has transformed itself into the country’s highest revenue generating sector, contributing 81.2 percent of Bangladesh’s total exports, making Bangladesh the second largest garment exporter of the world. As country’s textile & garment industry continues expansion, the demand for advanced machinery and technology is on the rise, several major sectors are ready to upgrade its machinery and equipment for driving all relative industries to the next leading level. Textile and apparel machinery manufacturers and sellers recognize Bangladesh as a lucrative business destination because of the country’s stronghold in global readymade garment trade. Low-cost and high-quality products that are produced on time; reliably and very competitively with a skilled work force; unique regional location for expansion into key Asian and other markets; privileged trading status with Canada, the EU and Japan; clusters of companies providing a local supplier base with depth in skilled labor, training, and technical development facilities provide a favorable advantage for the investors to invest in Bangladesh.

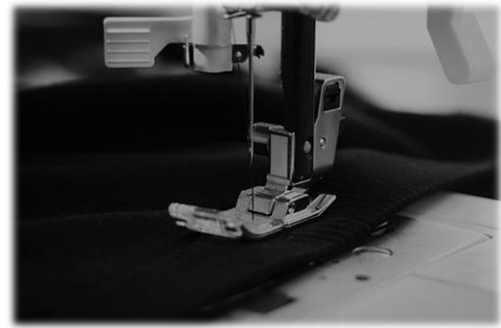

IN FIGURES

As textile & garment industry in Bangladesh continues expansion, the demand for advanced machinery and technology is on the rise. During last decade Bangladesh has imported textile & garment making machineries worth of around US$6.2 billion.
